Rev. Barbour Preaches Sermon—Dean Wilbur Speaks

TWENTY-FIVE RECEIVE DEGREES

Many Students Attend Baccalaureate Sermon—Graduates Wear Caps and Gowns—Convocation Held Thursday Morning

"I didn't know there were any preachers who could make me feel as I did," said one of the men students of Rev. Clarence A. Barbour, president of the Rochester Theological Seminary, who preached the sermon at the Midwinter Convocation last Sunday at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Barbour took as his subject the Master's definition of eternal life: "To Know God and to Know Christ—That Is Eternal Life."

"Just as one must live the events of history to appreciate them," he said, "so one must have something of the Christ within himself which he may give to the world if he would really know Christ."

The students formed in class units in front of the Medical School building and marched across the street to the church. The procession was headed by Senior Marshal Bertram Groesbeck and Assistant Marshals D. H. Cannon and John S. Bixler. Following were the trustees, the faculty members, and the mid-year and spring graduates, all in caps and gowns. The nurses wore the regulation uniform. Following them into the church marched the student body by classes.

President Stockton presided over the exercises and introduced Dr. Barbour. The Rev. Dr. Wallace Radcliffe, pastor of the church, offered the invocation and pronounced the benediction.

Meaning of Shakespeare

"Shakespeare has a real meaning in American life," said Dean William Allen Wilbur, who delivered the principal address at the Mid-year Convocation of the University held in the A. & S. Assembly Hall on Thursday morning. "Shakespeare is not a book, but an experience. The plays give personal projective that is needed by the American people."

"Those sections of this country that have the highest murder rate are the ones that raise the loudest cry of 'Peace at any Price,'" said President Stockton in addressing the graduates. "New England has an average homicide rate of 2.9 per 100,000 population, the Western states have 10.6 per cent, but the Southern states have 13.1 per cent."

President Stockton presided and Rev. W. O. Millington, of the Brookland Baptist Church, delivered the invocation.

The degrees were conferred upon the twenty-three graduates in cap and gown by the deans of the various departments.

Degrees Awarded

Those who received degrees were: Columbian College: Bachelor of Arts—Gail Fitch Moxon (in absentia); Ivan Snider (in absentia); bachelor of science in chemistry, Peter John Donk, George Washington Phillips.

Medical School: Doctor of Medicine—Jerome Thurston Quirk; Nurse's certificate, (Mrs.) Hazel Hixon Hayes; doctor of dental surgery, Irwin Bertram Cohen.

Law School: Bachelor of Laws—Wallace Irving Atherton, Chester C. Baxter, Tremaine Kellogg Burrows, Stephen Langhorn Desha, Jr., Howard Whedon Dix, Henry Herman Draeger, Andrew Barritt Galloway, Robert Frank Gross, Harry E. Heeneman, (with distinction), Rosser Lee Hunter, David Brewer Karrick, John Ridley Shields, Andrew Clifford Wilkins; master of laws, William Wallace Shepard.

College of Engineering: Bachelor of Science in electrical engineering—Norman Bruce Ames (in absentia). School of Graduate Studies: Master of arts—James Harold Collins.

MORE IN, MORE OUT

Up above the English rhetoric course theme boxes in the corridor opposite Dean Wilbur's office, posted and written that all may read, are the following words:

"If you put more themes in you get more themes out."

"A NIGHT OFF" GIVEN WITH 1,500 PRESENT

G. W. U. Players Score Artistic And Financial Success

Fifteen hundred persons witnessed the artistic and financial success of "A Night Off," produced by the George Washington Players in the new Central High School auditorium on the evening of Washington's Birthday.

From the organ recital prelude to the dancing after the play, the audience, which included such distinguished persons as Vice President and Mrs. Marshall Secretary of War and Mrs. Baker, Postmaster General and Mrs. Burleson, Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Daniel, President and Mrs. Stockton, the deans of the various departments and many of the faculty was in thro sympathy with the Players.

The audience laughed from start to finish at Marcus Brutus Snap, actor-manager, barnstorming in a college town, and a four-act maze of situations that his production of Prof. Justinian Babbitt's Roman tragedy caused.

Sol S. Gluck starred in the part of Snap, in addition to directing the production. By his portrayal of old Prof. Babbitt, Charles Kotthe won much applause.

Miss Ada Howell, as the professor's eldest daughter, Angelica, was true to her name in a difficult part.

As Nisbe, the other daughter, Miss Catherine Moran was so charming that Jack, played by Frank C. Knock, just had to propose. Miss Phebe C. Gates was a typical mother-in-law and as Susan, Miss Frances Geschickter scored a hit. Eugene Underwood played as Angelica's husband. The work of Miss Leonila Lloyd, Dan E. Higgins and William Gilligan was above the average. The several settings were well worked out.

It is expected that several hundred dollars was cleared for the benefit of athletics, thru the efficient work of Ernst M. Elkin, business manager, and his assistants, William Bastain, Elmer Pendell and Charles Prettyman. William Gilligan edited the handsome souvenir program which was dedicated to the girls of the University. He was aided greatly by the following girls of the executive committee: Miss Fay Pierce, Miss Martha McGrew, Miss Eleanor Stanton, Miss M. Elizabeth Speiser, Miss Edna Dixon, Miss Lenore Kolar, Miss Elizabeth Voorhees.

About five hundred high school students and friends attended as a result of the co-operation of the Players and high school organizations in the sale of tickets.

Medical Tuition Raised; Trustees Appoint Faculty

The tuition in the Medical School was raised from $150 to $175 a year and in the Dental School from $125 to $150 a year at the meeting of the Board of Trustees on Monday afternoon. The increase will affect only new matriculants and not those students who have already registered.

The following changes in faculty were made:

The resignation of Dr. George P. Merrill as professor of geology and mineralogy was accepted.

The following appointments were made: Frank Roy Rutter, Ph. D., lecturer on commerce to be assistant professor of economics. Carol Edward Bingham, M. D., to be clinical instructor in medicine. Everett Monroe Ellison, A. M., M. D., to be instructor in chemistry. William Glenn Young, M. D., to be clinical instructor in genito-urinary surgery. Thomas Miller, Jr., M. D., to be director of the University Dispensary. Thomas Linville, M. D., to be attending physician to the University Dispensary. Samuel Boyce Pole, M. D., to be attending laryngologist and otologist to the University Dispensary. Frederick William Warden, A. B., M. R. C. S., L. R. C. P., to be attending surgeon at the University Dispensary. The resignation of J. W. Cunningham as assistant librarian in the Law School library was accepted; and Elmar Wellen Diesnerud was appointed assistant librarian.

GIRLS LOSE TWO

The girls' basketball team lost its last two games on its northern trip, one to Radcliffe, 23 to 18, and teh other to Sargent, 31 to 21.

TRACK TICKETS READY

Arrangements Made For Big Meet Next Friday

It is now time for G. W. men to make dates with their girls for the George Washington Meet on Friday, March 2, at Convention Hall. Reserved seat tickets are on sale at A. G. Spalding's, 612 Fourteenth street, for $1, $1.50 and $2. Athletic tickets are good at the gate for general admission of its equivalent, 75 cents, when given in exchange for reserved seats either at Spalding's or at the box office on the night of the meet. As the meet will be the last athletic event the tickets will be taken up. The south stands at Convention Hall will be reserved for G. W. students and their friends, admission to which is $1 and $1.50, or an Athletic Association ticket and 25 cents.

Manager James and Graduate Manager Hodgkins have been hard at work arranging a smashing program of events.

With Lehigh, Lafayette, Johns Hopkins, the Carlisle Indians, Catholic University, Pennsylvania State and Virginia entering teams, the meet will be worth seeing. The best officials will serve and novel schemes for the spectators' comfort are under way.

Entries for the interfraternity relay event for fraternity fours composed of undergraduate students not on the track team close tonight. They should be addressed to W. S. James, 2023 G street.

LOSE HARD RACE TO C. U.

"Mike" Wingate Scores in G. U. Meet High Jump

George Washington lost a heart-breaking relay race to Catholic University Saturday night in the Georgetown Meet. James, G. W. lead-off man, took the lead and held his opponent for two laps, but when the C. U. man tried to pass inside the pole, James stumbled and fell flat. Scott, Johnson and Harsch made every effort to catch their men, but without success.

The team will run against C. U. again in the Johns Hopkins Meet at Baltimore tonight and will endeavor to redeem themselves.

"Mike" Wingate, G. W.'s only point winner, tied for third in the South Atlantic Championship high jump, which counts for 2½ points toward the South Atlantic Championship. In the open events G. W. failed to score, but Kilmartin put up a splendid race in the mile open. Romberger, of G. W., placed in his heat in the 50-yard open, but failed to qualify for finals.

DOCTORS MEET

Dr. Kenneth F. Maxcy, of Johns Hopkins University Hospital, addressed the meeting of the George Washington University Medical Society at its meeting last Saturday evening at the Medical School.

Men Play Last Home Game Against Tennessee

GIRLS MEET E. H. S. ALUMNI

The home season of the varsity basketball team of George Washington University will close tonight at the Y. M. C. A. with a "double-header" attraction.

The girls' basketball team will play the Eastern High Alumni girls of Baltimore in the opening game which will be called promptly at 7:45 o'clock. The varsity will make its farewell appearance to home rooters in its contest with the undefeated University of Tennessee team of Knoxville, Tenn. The second game will start at 8:45 p. m., and time will be called on the minute, as the visiting team must catch its returning train that night.

Special bleachers, seating three hundred persons, will again be erected. The University Band will be out in force.

Tennessee Strong

The University of Tennessee team is unquestionably the champion of the far South. In the previous three seasons they lost but four games, and this season have won eight straight games, amassing 232 points.

On this northern trip they meet Triscum, V. P. L., Washington and Lee, Virginia and George Washington University in succession.

COUNCIL GIVES LETTERS TO BASKETBALL MEN

Provide Sweaters for Team—Todd Managing Next Year's Schedule. Want Candidates for Girls' Manager

The awarding of this year's basketball letters was recommended by the Student Council at its meeting in the Law School Monday evening.

Captain Groesbeck, Almon, Patterson, Wilson, Allen, Hillis, Giacomo and Manager Daidy will be given their letters at once, and Helst, Harmon and Hall will receive theirs when they have played in the eight games required.

Fifty dollars of the Council fund from the tax was appropriated to provide blue sweaters for the basketball team.

Schedule Under Way

David Todd, present assistant manager of basketball, was given authority to work on next year's basketball schedule until the appointment of next year's manager.

Candidates for manager of next year's girls' basketball team were asked to report to Miss Elizabeth Davis, manager, for work and training as assistants this year.

A committee consisting of Elmer Kayser, chairman, Watson Davis and Z. A. Biggs was appointed to send a letter to other Universities to learn the methods of managing athletic associations.

PLAN WORDSWORTH LECTURE

Arrangements are being perfected for a lecture on "Wordsworth and the Lake Region," by Prof. Roy Bennett Pace, Ph. D., to be given in the A. & S. Assembly Hall at 3:45 o'clock on Friday, March 2.

Prof. Pace received the degree of master of arts from the University. His book, "American Literature," is dedicated to Dean Wilbur. Prof. Pace is now assistant professor of English at Swarthmore College.

Football Conditions Last Fall Caused Faculty Stand

ROBERT C. MARSHALL NEW DIRECTOR

New Director to Coach Football Team. Council Backs "Clean" Athletics Resolution—Plan to Compel All Active Students to Pass

Clean and above-board athletics in fact as well as name was the decision and demand of the Faculty Committee on Student Activities as shown by the following resolution framed by Dean Fraser, chairman, and adopted at its meeting Monday night in the Law School:

"Be it resolved, That any student who receives directly or indirectly any financial consideration which he would not receive were he not an athlete shall be ineligible to represent the University in any athletic sport. "And be it further resolved, That the continuance of any athletic sport in the University shall be conditional on the strict compliance with the letter and spirit of this resolution."

Action of McKnew

Charges that the first student manager of football, Donald McKnew, induced football players to come to the University under promises of free tuition and other offers, and the fact that a large percentage of last fall's football players are not now students at the University, are known to have lead up to the Faculty Committee's resolution.

Just after passing the "clean athletics" resolution, the Committee by recommending the appointment of Robert C. Marshall as director of athletics for next year, assured the continuance of athletics next year, supported by the activities tax and under the direction and immediate supervision of the athletic director.

Mr. Marshall will coach the football team and devote all his time to athletics except that spent in taking work in the Dental School.

The President has been authorized by the Board of Trustees to make the appointment and will do so as soon as a contract is signed.

Mr. Marshall is at present athletic director and a teacher at the Roanoke City High School, Roanoke, Va., and has been highly recommended for his coaching ability in football, track and basketball.

Strict Scholarship Rule

That no student who is deficient in any study be allowed to participate in any activity was suggested by Prof. De Witt C. Croissant, of the Faculty Committee, as a means of making more effective the "clean athletics" resolutions. The matter was discussed, and a proposition worked out in detail will be presented by Prof. Croissant at the next meeting.

It will provide that two weeks before the public appearance of any student representing the University, each of his instructors must certify that he is doing passing work. It is probable that the system will not be put into effect until next year.

This scholarship requirement is broad, and applicable not only to athletics but to every other public activity representing the University.

Council Backs Faculty

The Student Council, meeting at the same time as the Faculty Committee, when informed of the resolutions passed by the Committee immediately passed the following resolutions, expressing the belief that football and other sports can be conducted successfully and "clean" at the same time:

"Whereas, It has come to the notice of the Student Council that the Faculty Committee on Student Activities proposes to restrict membership on athletic teams to bona fide students 'not receiving directly or indirectly any financial consideration' which they would not receive were they not athletes,

"Be it resolved, That the Council express to the Faculty Committee that it heartily concurs in the stand taken by the Faculty Committee and

"Be it further resolved, That this Council, confident of the co-operation of the student body, desires to go on record as favoring the continuance of athletics.

Clean Athletics

A crisis in athletics has passed. For a time the conduct of one man in the management of last fall's football threatened to jeopardize all athletics in the University.

But clean athletics by bona fide students, under the direction of full-time director of athletics, will be held under the University sanction next year, the Faculty Committee has decided. The University will be represented by a "representative" football team that will be creditable, even tho it may not be as strong as this year's.

The stand of the Faculty Committee for "clean" athletics should meet with universal approval.

It is admittedly a usual thing for large universities to pay athletes, and several nearby universities practice this, according to common knowledge. What the first student manager of football is said to have done is not a capital crime, considering environment. But such commercialism shall not be practiced at George Washington University in the future, if the law laid down by the Faculty Committee is enforced to the letter, as it should be.

Perhaps the faculty was to blame in part for the football condition. The blame can not be laid to any one person. It is the system which brings about lack of definite responsibility and authority.

It is to be hoped in view of past experience, that unpleasant conditions will be caught in infancy instead of old age.

For every activity there should be an interested faculty member who will have immediate authority and responsibility. There must be strict actual faculty supervision of student activities, which will allow, however, full student initiative.

The appointment of a full-time director of athletics is a big stride in the direction of "clean," properly supervised, athletics.

It is only fair to say that the management of basketball, track and the latter part of football under Director Hodgkins has been above criticism.

Considering that never before in at least six years had a real attempt been made to get the student body together, the showing at the mid-year sermon on Sunday was creditable. A lack of class organization was noticeable, however. In order to be prepared for similar all-University events, it would be well for class presidents to make a preparedness canvas of their classes to find out if they are willing to attend the June sermon and the University field day in May.

She wore a veil that covered her eyes, nose and mouth like a submarine net. Safety first.

Diplomacy does not always get a diploma, but it helps.

The girls who have helped with the performance of "A Night Off" certainly deserve special credit for their hard work.

Percy At The Armory

Dear Joe: Well, Joe, it seems that I'm getting in bad so I must look for protection. I guess with 75 or 80 husky artillerymen near me, I am safe. On all sides of me, while I am writing, there stand the "big gun" boys ready for action, so I must tell you the truth about them. In front of me is a cylinder around which all the guns are hung and, over in the corner is the statue of Venus (the man near me says it isn't Venus, but their merit trophy.) Just opposite it stands the First Honor prize. These men are exceptionally bright. During the recent inspection, hardly a mistake was made. Charlie was asked the calibre of his gun and he immediately answered, "30, sir." Thirty what, miles?" asked the inspecting officer. "Oh, no, sir, I meant centimeters, of course," Charlie replied. The officer told him he must have served in the German army. Mike was asked what he would do if his leg were bleeding pulse-like streams on the field. "I would run like mad to camp, sir," he immediately replied. At this time one of the men was given a towel to wipe a grin off his face. The men went thru the technique of artillery work without an error. The buglers had the mess call down pat, not once did they get tripped up on it. The little questions they couldn't answer didn't pertain to their main work, anyway, so original answers were allowed. After drill, I was offered cigars and cigarettes, but I told the gentlemen I didn't smoke whereupon those who hadn't already made the offer did so. I stayed to the concert immediately following. They had "Where Did Robinson Crusoe Go With Friday on Saturday Night," by Al Jolson. No one seemed to know where he went after he passed Jolson. They celebrated the ten thousandth time that record had been played while I was there. Here's to the boys in drab, Joe. They are doing fine work. The highest officials have commended them. The students should go down to the Armory on drill nights and watch them. Don't forget the track meet, Joe. Next Friday night at Convention Hall.

PERCY.

The Girls

William Gilligan, who edited the "A Night Off" program, appreciated the help given the Players by the girls of the University so much that he wrote this poem:

If you'd have a thing done to a finish,
But the chances seem gloomy and slim,
For the reason that sons of proud Adam
Are wanting in backbone and vim,
You should make your appeal to the women,
And if in your plans they believe,
And the thing can be done, they will do it—
These wonderful daughters of Eve.

NEW HATCHET MOTTO

The motto, "Hew to the line and cleave to the truth," which The Hatchet has adopted, and which appears on the first page for the first time today, was suggested by William Miller Collier, lecturer on diplomacy.

HIGH SCHOOL EDITION IN APRIL

Will Tell Pupils Advantages of the University

The special high school edition of The Hatchet will be issued on Friday, April 6.

This edition will be distributed to the students of the five Washington high schools and sent to other high schools throughout the country. It will tell of the activities of the University, its courses, and the advantages it offers high school graduates who are going to college.

GIRLS' CHEERING POLL

Most Favor Co-Ed Yells—Undignified, Say a Few

"Are you interested in girls' cheering? Will you come to cheering practice? Will you go to the games?" Miss Martha McGraw, the girls' cheerleader, asked these questions of the 102 tax-signers in the Department of Arts and Sciences. She has their names and their answers in a card index and is going to hold them to their promises.

Sixty-seven girls said that they were interested, 13 said "No," and 13 just didn't know whether they were or not. Altho 74 girls promised to go to games and only 13 refused, only 52 fair co-eds said they would come to cheering practice, and 40 refused.

Most of the girls who are not interested think that cheering by the girls is undignified and the ones who will not promise to go to the games say they can't get the young men to see them home.

According to that girls' rooting canvas, some girls can't go to the games because the gallant young man is lacking. Perhaps the Hatchet better start an "Advice to the" column.

SIXTY TAX SIGNERS SEE
PHYSICIAN EACH MONTH

Subscribers to Activities Tax Are Benefited By Medical Insurance—
Dr. Borden's Office Hours.

An average of sixty George Washington University students have monthly availed themselves of the opportunity to receive medical aid from the University Physician, Dr. Daniel Borden, since his appointment in October. About fifteen students receive minor operations every month and an average of three students a month make use of the hospital privileges extended at the George Washington University Hospital. The University physician makes the physical examinations for the athletic teams and attends the games, giving emergency treatment to any member of the team when required.

The University extends to every signer of the dollar-a-month activities tax the privilege of office treatment during the school year, home treatment not exceeding three visits for one illness and hospital treatment in all cases except those requiring the advice of a specialist or a major operation for a period not exceeding three weeks in each school year.

Tax signers may consult with Dr. Borden between the hours of 9 and 10 and 5 and 6 o'clock upon week days at his office at the Rochambeau Apartment, 815 Connecticut avenue.

HAIRPIN BLOCKS TRAFFIC

Blonde Junior Co-Ed Causes Jam Until It Was Found

One small yellow hairpin blocked traffic on the stairs full of students in the A. & S. Building at the 5 o'clock hour the other night. "The eternal feminine" again! The hairpin was small, but oh, my!—so essential.

It held up the whole "front hair" of a little blonde junior girl. It slipped out at a most inopportune time, of course, just when the greatest number of students were threading their way up and down the stairs between classes.

Somebody yelled "Gangway!" The junior exclaimed "Eureka!" and the crowds passed on.

OBJECTS TO AMENDMENTS

That the Congressional amendments preventing government employees from accepting outside compensation would prevent government experts from holding paid administrative positions in learned societies, such as U. S. Naval Institute, and the American Chemical Society, and thus work an unnecessary hardship, is pointed out in a letter sent to Senator Gallinger by Dean Charles E. Munroe.

"Just look at that woman," I whispered low.

"Her shoes are not laced up." And down the aisle he rubbered, "Oh, They're buttoned ones!" Now stop!

FOUR COLLEGE SOCIETIES HOLD ANNUAL BANQUETS

Chemists, Engineers, Debaters, and
Vets. Dine—Chemists Analyze
Food and Speeches

Instead of heavy fumes of ammonia pouring from the windows, sounds of breaking test-tubes, beakers, and other activity usually evidenced around the chemical laboratories, all was dark and quiet last Friday night. Further investigation revealed that the students, including fifteen of the fair sex, had adjourned to the laboratories of the New Ebbitt for the seventh annual Food Analysis of the Chemical Society.

In the course of the evening three very interesting experiments were performed. The first dealt with the examination of eighteen or twenty reagents. Various methods of analysis were used, but all concluded that by certain manipulations the reagents might be so combined that they would disappear entirely from view.

In experiment two matches were struck and great volumes of smoke were seen coming from the points at which the material used in number one was last visible.

Experiment three dealt with explosives. Eight different reactions were set off by the fuse, George Washington Phillips, President Stockton and Deans Munroe, Hodgkins and Wilbur were involved in the first four, while Professors Clark, Hill, McNeil, and Swett performed the second group.

Engineers Hear Speakers

"A Washington boy can get just as good an engineering education at George Washington as at any other university," said Frank C. Daniels, principal of the McKinley Manual Training High School at the annual banquet of the Engineering Society Tuesday night at the New Ebbitt.

Woman is fast becoming a factor in the industrial world, President Stockton said, and warned engineers to look to their jobs.

Director S. W. Stratton, of the Bureau of Standards, explained the methods of the National Research Council in solving preparedness problems.

The engineer must have a general, as well as a technical education, said Dean Hodgkins. Take a course in public speaking so as to be able to sell your knowledge, urged Professor Dunstan. Do not quit studying when you get out of college, advised Professor Mortimer. Get an engineering job during the summer, said W. D. Halsey, instructor in mechanical engineering. William S. James, president, was toastmaster.

Debaters Banquet

A large gathering of the members of the Columbian Debating Society and their fair friends held their annual banquet at the Dewey Hotel Saturday evening.

Dean Fraser, who was the principal speaker, lauded the spirit exhibited by the society in its purpose of developing the forensic art. He pictured a future greater George Washington University of which all its graduates will be even more proud, and for which President Stockton would have to be credited in a great measure for his invaluable contribution of labor and effort.

Bates M. Stovall, president, acted as toastmaster. A Hawaiian trio furnished music.

Other speakers were Professors Parks and Ferson, Messrs. O. T. Smith, L. E. Pendell, G. A. Sanborne, P. G. Morehouse, G. L. Hall, Harry S. Taylor, H. W. Cornell, N. E. Larkin, Capt. A. M. Dowell and Mr. McArthur.

Vets Have Annual Feast

President Stockton, Charles Wardell Stiles, U. S. Public Health Service; and G. M. Rommel, of the Bureau of Animal Industry were among the speakers at the annual banquet of the Veterinary Medical Association held at the Continental Hotel Wednesday evening.

Governor Hull, of Iowa, spoke on the great opportunities that this country offers.

Dean David E. Buckingham, Professor Marcus W. Lyon, Jr., and Henry I. Quinn, of the faculty also spoke.

Dr. J. P. Turner served as toastmaster and E. E. Romberger, '19, had charge of the music.

HARVARD GRADS DINE

Many Harvard alumni on the University Faculty attended the Harvard Club banquet last Saturday night at the Raleigh Hotel. Prof. George Neely Henning, president of the club, presided. President Charles H. Stockton was a guest.

Prof. L. Russel Alden was chairman of the banquet committee, but owing to the illness of his father was unable to attend the banquet. Harvard graduates on the faculty who were present were: Professors Cobb, Henning, Hill, Smith, Crane, Doyle and Munroe, and Walter Tuckerman, of the Board of Trustees.

Four Acts Already
Billed for Hatchet Show

Four acts have already been scheduled for the vaudeville show to be held in the A. & S. Assembly Hall, March 23. The Phi Mu Fraternity will give two ten-minute acts, one of which will be "Feber and Wields," a co-ed tumbling stunt. The other two are "Spareribs Porkchops and Gravy" and "Rube Musicians."

The Student Council sanctioned the plan at its last meeting and intends to give it its solid support.

Some difficulty has been encountered in the charging of admission to the show, as it would make the University liable to taxation. It is probable that the matter will be adjusted, as it has been pointed out that the profits of the show would go toward an education purpose. Treasurer Holmes has the matter in charge.

DO YOU ELECT "EASY" COURSES?

A. & S. Faculty Will Discuss Effect
of Marking on Electives

If a student knows that a professor "marks easy" will he elect his courses rather than a course given by an instructor who has a reputation for being "hard" in grading? Is it right that he should and how can this tendency be corrected?

These are questions that are bothering the faculty of the Department of Arts and Sciences and will be discussed at a meeting of that faculty soon.

Dean Hodgkins in a recent report giving figures on grading says:

"Some instructors have a habit of giving grades too high, and others of giving grades too low. It is reasonable to suppose that to some extent students are influenced in their selection of elective courses by the reputation of the instructors for giving high marks. This is a factor that should obviously not enter into any such selection."

CO-EDS AND VARSITY PLAY GAMES TONIGHT

"Shorty" Almon, who have played on the varsity team for four years, including this year's team.

On Wednesday the G. W. U. team will begin its northern trip by meeting Lehigh, and on March 1 and March 2, Pennsylvania Military College and Brooklyn Polytechnic will be played.

SCORE WIN OVER TEMPLE

Harmon Scores Over Half of G. W.'s Thirty-three Points

The team entertained the Temple University quint of Philadelphia at the Y. M. C. A. on Thursday evening and hung a 33-24 score on the Quaker boys.

The local boys got off to an early lead and had a 15 to 7 advantage when the "Sandman" caught up with them. The Quakers came strong and at the intermission had tied the score at 18 all. They were the noisiest Quakers we have heard and kept up a constant chatter.

When play was resumed, the speed of the Hatchettes sent them far in the lead, while but one field goal was registered by the visitors during this period. Of the final score of 33 to 24, Harmon starred by scoring over half of the victors' total, with two field goals and thirteen foul-gats.

LOSE BY PERSONAL FOULS

Sixteen Out of 18 Fouls in C. U. Game Declared Personal

Catholic University was declared winner, by a 31 to 22 score, over the G. W. U. quint on last Monday evening at Carroll Institute. The officials, Mr. Downey of Georgetown as referee and Mr. Morse of Clarkson Tech as umpire, established a world's record by calling 16 personal fouls out of 18 against G. W. U.

C. U. gained a considerable lead towards the end of the half and at intermission had a 19-10 score in their favor. On the G. W. U. players, in the first half the following fouls had been called: Patterson, 3 personal; Hall, 3 personal; McMahon, 3 personal; and Harmon, 1 technical.

In the beginning of the final half G. W. U. gained seven points before C. U. scored, bringing the total to C. U. 20, G. W. 17. Hall and Patterson received their fourth penalties and both players were removed. Heist replaced Hall, and Wilson went in for Patterson and the game went on to its record-making conclusion. Heist's gambols were cut short by two personal fouls being called on him and he was called to the side lines for fear he would receive the extreme sentence.

In the meantime C. U. was sending in reserves, not because of disqualifications, but to strengthen the first line trenches.

"Shorty" Almon is not a giant-killer by vocation, but he staggered around with three personal fouls and was afraid to wink for fear the fourth would be called sending him to the morgue.

The star of the game was Harmon, who again scored over half of G. W.'s total with one field goal and 12 out of sixteen foul goals. He had only foul called on him, that a technical. He wore the lucky numeral "7".

C. U. had a ratio of 1 personal foul to 1 technical foul, while G. W. U. had a ratio of 8 personal fouls to 1 technical foul. X equals the referee, Y the umpire. Find the length of the scorer's pencil.

Hampden-Sidney, University of Maryland, Richmond College, and George Washington.

The Conclave will end tonight with the Washington Kappa Sigma Alumni banquet at the University Club. The speakers will include Secretary McAdoo, Judge Covington, Dr. Cary Grayson, and Representatives Campbell, Goodwin and Williams.

Alpha Eta of Kappa Sigma announces the initiation of the following men: John T. Birmingham, Law '18, of Connecticut; Harold C. Patterson, A. & S. '19, of Maryland; Earle B. White, Dental '19, of D. C.; Joseph Howard Fellows, A. & S. '21, of D. C.

Herbert H. Shinnick, A. & S. '18, has been appointed assistant state chemist of Maryland. He will have charge of the food laboratories at Maryland State College.

"Clean" athletics will attract students who want to play football was the opinion expressed at the meeting of the Council. There are several football players in the graduating classes of the Washington high schools who have already announced their intention of attending the University.

How bona fide students stood on the side lines and watched regular players slightly better, or stood the punishment of playing as scrubs was recited.
